Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136 (a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133).
- Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's preliminary amendment submitted May 4, 2001 is acknowledged. Claims 1-10 are cancelled and claims 11-22 are examined on the merits herein.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 11-22 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 12-21 recite the limitations "according to claim 1", "according to claim 4", and "according to claim 5" in their first line. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim. Note that claims 1-10 have been cancelled. In order to expedite prosecution all claims referring to claim 1 have been interpreted to depend from claim 11, all claims referring to claim 4 have been interpreted to depend from claim 14, all claims referring to claim 5 have been interpreted to depend from claim 15.

The term "immediate environment" in claims 11 and 22 is a relative term which renders the claim indefinite. The term "immediate environment" is not defined by the claim, the specification does not provide a standard for ascertaining the requisite degree, and one of ordinary skill in the art would not be reasonably apprised of the scope of the invention. One of ordinary skill would not know the parameters defining the immediacy of the environment. Is "immediate environment" the soil in which the plant is planted? Is it the aerial space occupied by the plant? Is the forest/garden/orchard where the plant inhabits its immediate environment?

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 11-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over applicant's admissions regarding the prior art in the specification in view of Moberg (WO 96/11572).

On page 4 of the specification, applicants disclose that two German patents (DE OS 3227126 and 3229097) teach that certain combinations of anionic surfactants, aliphatic and aromatic carboxylic acids as well as a few heteroatomic acids are capable of killing off viruses, bacteria and fungi.

Applicant's admissions regarding the prior art on page 4 of the specification, do not teach the employment of triglycols in its combination composition capable of killing off viruses, bacteria and fungi. Applicant's admissions also do not teach specific aromatic or aliphatic carboxylic acids to be employed in its combination composition. Further, applicant's admissions do not teach a method of combatting microorganisms employing its combination composition.

Moberg teaches an antimicrobial/disinfectant composition comprising carboxylic acids such as propionic acid, hydroxypropionic acid, see particularly claim 4. Moberg further teaches the employment of propylene glycol and butylene glycol in its composition, see particularly claim 3. Moberg further teaches a method of combatting microorganisms employing carboxylic acids and diols, see particularly claim 12.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to employ a diol (e.g. propylene glycol) in the combination composition restated by the applicant on page 4 of the specification. It would have also been obvious to employ the claimed carboxylic acids and diols in a method of combating pathogenic organisms.

One of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to employ diol (e.g. propylene glycol) in the combination composition restated by the applicant on page 4 of the specification because diol are known to be useful in antimicrobial compositions. It is prima facie obvious to combine two compositions each of which is taught by the prior art to be useful for the same purpose, in order to form a third composition to be useful for the very same purpose, In re Kerkhoven, 205 USPQ 1069, 1072 (CCPA 1980). Moreover, the employment of two agents known to be useful in a method of combating microorganisms would be reasonably expected to be useful in combating pathogenic microorganisms regardless of the host. The two agents, singly or in combination, would be expected to exhibit antipathogenic activities, regardless of its cause.
